

15 FAMILIES ARE EVICTED AT ONCE

Household Goods of Tenants at Nos. 514 and 516 East Twelfth Street Piled Up on the Sidewalk.

RENT RAISED $1 A MONTH. AND THEY REFUSED TO PAY.

While the Marshals Were Moving Them Out They Offered to Stay, but Landlord Declined to Let Them.

Fifteen families, members of their own rent-protective association, were to-day evicted from the tenement-house at Nos. 514 and 516 East Twelfth street because they would not submit to an increase of $1 each month in the rent.

A city marshal with a score of husky assistants swooped down on the house this afternoon and carted all of the furniture and possessions of the fifteen tenants to the sidewalk.

The goods made a heap fifteen feet high and extending sixty feet long and from the building line nearly to the middle of the street. Three policemen were called to watch the mass of homeless furnishings.

When the landlord, George Rader, notified the tenants that their rent would be raised $1 Isaac Silver, one of them, organized the others and they all agreed that they would not pay the increase. This notice was posted in the hall:

"You don't want to pay the landlord. This house is on strike."

Several meetings were held in Silver's room and it is said all of the tenants agreed they would not pay the increased rent, which was to have been collected the first of this month.

Five of them, when served with the dispossession notices yesterday reconsidered and after a consultation with the others they thought that Silver's organization would not so protect them that they could stay in the premises without paying the extra dollar.

While the moving was in progress to-day Silver called the other tenants together and after a consultation they waited on the landlord and announced they would pay the increase.

But Rader said it was then too late, that he did not want them in the place.

Anti-Rent Strikes.
Strikes have been declared on eighty-two east side tenement-houses by the Tenants' Rent Protective Association, of New York.

At a meeting last night in the headquarters at No. 232 East Broadway eighty-six delegates, representing labor unions, attended and passed on 1,100 dispossession cases. Then strikes were called on eighty-two tenements where tenants had been forced to move because the landlords had increased the rent.

A strike on a residence is maintained by posting pickets outside of it and warning all prospective tenants not to rent the premises.

Sam Edelstein, Secretary of the association, said today that many landlords who had announced an increase in rents had made terms with the association and had permitted rents to remain at the old price, signing leases to that effect with the tenants who had been served with dispossession notices before the landlord made terms.

The association has no membership fees or dues of any kind. All expenses are met by the labor union.

CHARLEY ADLER'S BIG SPARK IS GONE

He Gave It to Turkish Bath Clerk and in the Morning It Was Missing, So Now He Brings Suit.

Port Warder Charlie Adler's stone is gone. Over in the Eighth Assembly District, where every man in politics wears diamonds, they always call 'em stones. The way Charley lost his is queer, and he is looking for $300 compensation.

"I went to a Turkish bath uptown the other night," he says. "I took the anchor off my stone, unscrewed out of my front, and gave it to the clerk. He put it into one of the lockers in the big safe."

"Take good care of that flash," I says to the guy. "It was giv' me by my constituents in de ate."

"Aw g'wan," says he. "We have tons of them locked up in this yer safe."

"So," I says. "Well, you ain't got any better than mine and neither has Diamond Charley Cramer."

When Charley Adler had been rubbed, scrubbed and had enjoyed a calm sleep, he started to leave and got his valuables, but the stone was missing. The clerk said it was never given to him to put there.

Say, yelled Adler, "your burglar-proof safe is a Rothschild tin-vault frame. You'll have to pony up."

Then he got Alderman Leo Harburger to bring suit for $300.

"If he wins, what's to prevent anybody suing in for valuable things?" he asks the proprietor of the bath.

But that doesn't satisfy de Ate.

DODGE-MORSE MOTION DENIED

Justice Vernon M. Davis Declines to Set Aside Justice Bischoff's Decree Annuling Marriage to Ice Magnate.

Justice Vernon M. Davis, of the Supreme Court, has thrown the first obstacle in the way of the effort to undo the work of secret divorces and annulments in the Dodge-Morse complication by refusing to set aside Justice Bischoff's decree annulling the marriage of Clarence Morse to Charles W. Morse, the Ice-trust magnate and owner of a string of banks.

On the hearing in this application, made by Samuel Untermyer in behalf of Charles W. Morse, as on the previous proceeding by Morse to reinstate the Dodge divorce, one of ex-Judge Furman's office assistants appeared and after carefully reciting that Justice Furman had had no communication with his client, Mrs. Morse, and therefore did not know from her just what she desired in the premises, said that the proceeding was so entirely in her interest that no opposition would be offered in her behalf.

Justice Davis Not Satisfied.
Justice Davis apparently does not like this, for in refusing to set aside the annulment and thus practically reinstate the Morse, he said, to-day:

"I am not satisfied that the plaintiff (Mrs. Morse) is fully represented on this motion."

"According to the papers submitted she is out of the country, and the counsel upon whom the papers were served (ex-Judge Edgar L. Furman) disclaims any special authority to consent to the vacation of the judgment of divorce. Nor is there any proof that she has knowledge of the application. Under the circumstances I must deny this motion."

Meantime Charles F. Dodge, who is under indictment here for perjury in 1901, he had not been served with his wife's complaint in the divorce action nor employed the head lawyer, Mortimer Ruger, to appear for him in the second proceedings before a referee resulting in what he claimed was a fraudulent divorce to his wife, is dissipating his wealth with pocket full of money in Texas, and people are wondering who is supplying the funds.

Divorce Was Set Aside.
Dodge got that divorce set aside last December by another secret proceeding before a referee, Justice Clarke signing the order.

As Mrs. Dodge had married Charles W. Morse after that divorce, it left her with two husbands.

In her name proceedings (again in secret before a referee) were brought to annul her marriage to Morse on the ground that as her divorce had been declared illegal she was the wife of Dodge.

The exposure of this proceeding by the whole queer complication, Dodge's indictment, and it developed that the palace-car conductor was rolling in money.

A. H. Hummel has prepared in behalf of Dodge an appeal from Justice Truax's decision reinstating Mrs. Dodge's divorce, and to-day's decision by Justice Davis will help him in that appeal.

JANITRESS GETS VERDICT OF $1,000

Landlord Beat Her, So a Jury Decides, After an Altercation About a Woman Tenant in the Flat-House.

Philip Mock will have to pay $1,000 to Adele Jansen, janitress of his apartment house at Eighth avenue and Forty-sixth street, for choking her, banging her head against the door-bell, punching her and throwing her into the hall "as though she were a piece of wood," a jury said so to-day before Justice Clarke in the Supreme Court.

The story drawn out by Moses Strausman from Adele Jansen was that Detective Lyons and a policeman called with a third man on the night of Sept. 13, 1901, to look for $17, of which the man said he had been robbed by "Mrs. Brown," on the second floor.

"Detective Lyons asked me if I ever saw anything of the Browns," said the frail little janitress, answering Mr. Strausman's questions in a faint whisper. "I said no, but that other tenants had threatened to move out."

"I watched and found out that the tenants were right. But Mr. Mock said that I should mind my own business."

"After the detectives went away Mr. Mock called me to his store and said if I didn't keep my mouth shut I would lose my place. He called me bad names. I scolded him and he grasped me by the neck and banged my head against the iron doorpost."

Mrs. Mock came up and punched me with her flat and Mr. Mock threw me into the hall like a piece of mud. When I came to I was so weak I crawled up the stairs to the second floor and then fell down."

"I was sick a long time. Dr. McManus called in several specialists. I lost my voice, hearing and sense of smell for several months, and I cannot smell the flowers now."

ROBBER GETS SIX YEARS.
William Morgan Is Sentenced to a Term in Sing Sing.

William Morgan, who with another held up and robbed a messenger boy of $1,280 in front of the Tombs April 4, 1903, was to-day sentenced to Sing Sing Prison for six years by Judge Cowing in General Sessions.

After the robbery Morgan and his pal fled to St. Louis, but returned several months later. Morgan's companion, Cohen, was subsequently arrested and sent to the Elmira Reformatory. Cohen communicated with Morgan in St. Louis, and through this communication Morgan was arrested.

The money stolen from the boy belonged to Sargent & Co., hardware dealers in Leonard street.

MOB SHOT AT THE SPANISH PREMIER

Volley of Bullets Went Over the Head of Minister Maura and Passed Through Roof of Car in Which He Rode.

MADRID, April 26.—Premier Maura, was shot at by a mob while on his way here from the Balearic Islands. When between Alicante and San Vicente bullets aimed at him went over his head and through the roof of the car in which he was riding. The incident created great alarm, but no one was injured.

The official report of the incident given out by the Minister of the Interior says:

"As the train was running between Alicante and San Vicente some persons fired and others threw stones. The gendarmes accompanying the train returned the fire. Neither the Premier nor the other passengers were hurt. Two arrests were made."

This is the second attack on the Premier within a few weeks. Premier Maura was attacked and slightly wounded in Barcelona April 12 by a would-be assassin, who stabbed him with a knife concealed in a handkerchief as the Premier was leaving the Palace of the Council-General. Owing to the thickness of the gold lace on his coat the Premier escaped with a slight wound in the side.

Senor Maura, who had previously held the portfolio of Minister of the Interior, aroused the animosity of the students of Madrid, Barcelona and elsewhere by the treatment to which the students of Salamanca were subjected, to several of whom were killed in a riot last year. Demonstrations against the Minister followed.

Senor Maura also excited considerable feeling against himself by the strong measures which he caused to be adopted in suppressing the strike riots in Barcelona. Consequently when the Premier went to the city of Madrid, he was met by King Alfonso general anxiety was felt in Spanish official circles, as it was feared the Republicans and socialists would visit on the King their hatred of the Premier.

A bomb was said to have been exploded April 7 as the King was leaving the Exhibition building at Barcelona. This, however, was subsequently denied, it being explained that an explosion of gas gave rise to the report of an attempt to kill the King.

BARRY NOT PROSECUTED.
Press Agent Charged with Shooting in Theatre Is Discharged.

The complaint against William Barry, the theatrical press agent, who was arrested on April 18 on complaint of Clarence L. Weiss, manager of the American Theatre, on the charge of firing a revolver shot at an actor in the "Out of the Fold" Company, was thrown out of court by Magistrate O'Brien to-day on the request of the complainant.

The warrant issued for a man whom Barry accused has not been served.

LADEN WITH GOLD, SONGBIRDS SAIL

Eleven of Herr Conried's Leading Singers on Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse Carry Away with Them $420,000.

Close to $500,000 of United States money was carried abroad on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse to-day by Herr Conried's departing song birds and the full company did not go at that. Eleven of the singers, comprising four tenors, three sopranos, two contraltos and two basses earned $120,000 since their arrival in New York twenty-one weeks ago and most of them have got it all.

Everybody who had met any of the singers at any time during the season was at the pier to bid them farewell. All the intimate friends of the singers were there, also. Then there were hordes of music lovers who have never met a grand opera singer, but have paid many hard earned dollars for hearing them.

Two of those scheduled to sail, Alois Burgstaller and Jacques Bars, failed to appear. Mme. Calve, who would not sail on a German ship, even if she had to swim otherwise, was seen at the pier. She was not at the pier to-day to bid a final goodbye to her fellow artists.

Frau Gadski, with a little child and a maid, had eyes for no one but her stalwart husband, Herr Tauscher, who is compelled to remain in New York by the exactions of his business. He is a prima donna's husband who really works and makes his own living. Until the ship was out of sight down the river he hung over a gate on the pier, waving his hand at his wife, who stood at the rail.

Mme. Aino Ackte, who expressed herself as charmed with her experience in New York, is coming back next year. So is Edythe Walker, the American contralto.

Among the other singers who were passengers on the Kaiser were A. Dipert, soprano; Ernest Kraus, tenor; Felix Mottl, the conductor; Lionel Mapleson, Pol Plancon, Guillaume Stengel, Milka Ternina and Van Rooy.

MME. CALVE NOT DOCKED.
Mme. Calve when seen in her apartments at the Hotel Savoy to-day by a reporter from The Evening World said in reference to the report that Herr Conried proposed to dock her pay $50 for the concert at the Metropolitan Opera-house, "I don't care. I will sing which the singer refused to give the second number for which she was asked."

"Stories! Stories! The biggest kind of manufactured—er—fabrications. People are always gossiping about things of which they know not the least little bit. Deduct $50 from my pay and give it to charity. A pretty good story, indeed. And give me but $50, is it?"

"All right," she says. "Yesterday Herr Conried paid me $2,000 in full for my services Sunday evening, and that, furthermore, he has always paid me my salary to the last sou."

HAS A SAY
The School Principal Talk About Food.

The principal of a High School in a flourishing California city says:

"For 23 years I worked in the school with only short summer vacations. I formed the habit of eating rapidly, masticated poorly, which, coupled with my sedentary work, led to indigestion, liver trouble, lame back and rheumatism."

"Upon consulting physicians some doped me with drugs, while others proscribed dieting and sometimes I got temporary relief, other times not. For 12 years I struggled along with this handicap to my work, seldom laid up, but often a burden to myself with lameness and rheumatic pains."

"Two years ago I met an old friend, a physician, who noticed at once my out-of-health condition and who prescribed for me an exclusive diet of Grape-Nuts, milk and fruit."

"I followed his instructions and in two months I felt like a new man, with no more headaches, rheumatism or liver trouble, and from that time to this Grape-Nuts has been my main food for evening meals, am stronger and healthier than I have been for years, without a trace of the old troubles."

"Judging from my present vigorous physical and mental state I tell my people Methuselah may yet have to take second place among the old men, for I feel like I will live a great many more years."

"For all this remarkable change in health I am indebted to my wise friend and Grape-Nuts, and I hope the Postum Company will continue to manufacture this life and health giving food for several centuries yet, until I move to a world where indigestion is unknown." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Ask any physician what he knows about Grape-Nuts. Those who have tried it know things.

"There's a reason."

CALLED POLICE TO PUT SON ABED

Freddy Is Six Feet Tall and Weighs 200 Pounds, and His Father Deemed It Wisest to Run No Chances.

Dr. William H. Porter, a professor and demonstrator at the Post-Graduate Hospital, explained to an Evening World reporter to-day in the Strand more Apartments, Fifty-second street and Broadway, why he summoned the police last night to assist him in getting his son Freddy to bed.

Freddy is nineteen years old. He is 6 feet tall and weighs 200 pounds. Freddy has been in college. He is going to learn to be a doctor like his father, the professor.

Yesterday afternoon Freddy met a few college friends on Broadway. When Freddy came home to his father his elbow was sore from leaning heavily upon it. He seemed restive and addressed his father in the plural.

Wanted Main Street Again.
"Father, I want to go out on Broadway again," Freddy announced after nervously watching the two clocks ticking on the mantelpiece. The professor regarded his son through his double-lensed glasses and replied quietly but firmly: "Friederick, you had better go to bed."

Freddy glanced toward his bedroom where his couch was gently swaying back and forth. He looked out into Broadway, where myriad lights danced behind welcoming plate-glass fronts. He insisted upon going out.

Called for Help.
The professor rose from his seat and strode to the telephone.

Freddy watched the fluttering eye of the transmitter as his father waited for an answer to his request for the West Forty-seventh street station. Kindly send me a policeman," requested the physician of the bladder and kidney trouble.

Freddy was still watching the transmitter when Policeman Hawkins entered the room. He transferred his attention to the wonderful array of gilt buttons on the blue coat's ample front.

Dr. Porter told the policeman he wanted his help in getting Freddy to bed.

"Young man," said Policeman Hawkins abruptly, "Broadway is no place for you, son. You for the bed or I runs you in."

Freddy meditated for a moment, until his eyes lighted on the night stick Hawkins wore at his belt. Then he rose with dignity from his seat and slowly made his way to his bedroom.

"I was very reluctant," said the professor to-day, "to have to call upon the police, and I am very sorry the unfortunate affair became public. My son will not remain in New York during the summer. No, I am going to send him to the country."

CATARRH DESTROYS THE KIDNEYS

GEORGE KING.

M. R. GEORGE KING, Deputy Sheriff of Reussel Co., N. Y., for years was a well-known merchant of Troy, N. Y., he writes:

"Peruna cured me from what the doctors were afraid would turn into Bright's Disease, after I had suffered with catarrh of the bladder and kidney trouble."

"Peruna is a blessing to a sick man. Eight bottles made me a well man, and were worth more than a thousand dollars to me. I cannot speak too highly of it. It is now four years since I was troubled, and I have enjoyed perfect health since."

A Prominent Member of I. O. O. F. Threatened With Bright's Disease—Peruna Restored Him to Health.

O. Fred Lindstrom, Past Grand Master Independent Order of Odd Fellows, writes from 1223 University Ave., St. Paul, Minn.:

"I contracted a severe cold several years ago, which from neglect developed into urinary trouble, and threatened Bright's disease. I used Peruna faithfully for three and one-half months, when my health was perfect once more. I have never had any trouble since."—O. Fred Lindstrom.

Catarrhal inflammation of the mucous lining of the kidneys, also called "Bright's disease," may be either acute or chronic. The acute form produces symptoms of such prominence that the serious nature of the disease is at once suspected, but the chronic variety may come on so gradually and insidiously that its presence is not suspected until after it has fastened itself thoroughly upon its victim.

At the appearance of the first symptoms Peruna should be taken. This remedy strikes at once at the very root of the disease.
